

Yaohui Guo serves as the manager of quantitative research and risk management group in Babson College Fund(BCF) for the academic year 2009-2010. He has strong interests in Finance and investments as a result of his entrepreneurial experience in China and his four-year personal successful investment experience in the Chinese stock market. Yaohui passed the CFA level 1 exam in June, 2009. In summer 2009, Yaohui was a securities lending associate at eSecLending, one of the top securities lending agents in the world.

Yaohui has over 7 years of engineering experience with exceptional analytical and quantitative skills. He holds a Bachelor and Master degree in electrical engineering from Huazhong University of Science and Technology in China. Prior to joining Babson, Yaohui co-founded Shanghai Ziimoo Communication Company and grew revenue to US$14 million. He led development of 10 types of cell phones in different product lines and his effort led to sale of 500,000+ phones.

Yaohui comes from China and he enjoys Chinese culture, including Chinese painting, Chinese calligraphy and Chinese cuisines. He also is passionate about history and politics system.